

André Cardoso
Commercial Energy Manager

“ Our obsession with quality, associated with competitive products, makes our difference in this energy market. ”

André Cardoso has a bachelor's degree in Electrical Engineering and a post-graduate diploma in Industrial Management.

He made his career in Commercial area passing by several multinationals. In the last 20 years he has been working in the electric cables segment, with emphasis on special cables, which have high added value. He always looked for ways to highlight the company in this highly competitive market through innovation and quality.

He joined Cabelauto in 2017. He is responsible for sales in energy segment attending utilities, industries, distributors and engineering companies, searching new opportunities with the customer, homologating, and developing new products.